Media Information

As the Chicago Bulls enter their 25th season in the league, the team is appreciative of the coverage and support from the Chicagoland media. We look forward to assisting the media again this season. In an effort to provide a professional working environment, the Bulls have established the following guidelines for the season:

CREDENTIALS: We will honor all reasonable requests for credentials from recognized newspapers, magazines, radio and television outlets. The only season passes that will be honored at the Stadium are Bulls season credentials and NBA season credentials. Each of those credentials will admit the bearer to the Stadium, the upstairs press box, press row and both locker rooms. However, MEDIA MEMBERS HOLDING SEASON PASSES SHOULD NOTIFY THE BULLS OFFICE IF PLANNING TO COVER A GAME IN ORDER TO RESERVE SEATING. Please make seating requests at least 48 hours prior to the game.

Individual single game press and photo credentials can be secured for accredited media members by calling the Bulls Media Services office no later than 5:00 pm the day before a game (5:00 pm Friday for a weekend game). Single passes can be picked up at Gate 3 1/2 on the west side of the Stadium.

It is recommended that credentials be visibly worn in the Stadium to facilitate proper access to designated areas. In all cases, season and single game passes are non-transferable and any unauthorized use will subject the bearer to ejection from the Stadium and the forfeiture of the credential.

PRESS GATE: The Bulls press entrance is Gate 3 1/2 located on the west side of the Stadium. Again, only an official Bulls media pass or an official NBA pass will be recognized.

PRESS ROOM: The upstairs press box serves as the Bulls press room. Only working media with a valid credential will be allowed in the press box. The work area is equipped with electrical outlets. Media needing a phone for the season or a single game should contact Tim Hallam (312/943-5800) two weeks in advance.

SERVICES: A pre-game meal will be served. Prior to the game, the media will also be provided with game notes and programs. All statistical services including play-by-play, quarter statistics, halftime and final box scores, and post-game quotes will be distributed at press row and in the upstairs press box. Scores from other NBA games being played will be flashed on the auxiliary scoreboards located on the mezzanine level at both the north and south sides of the Stadium. Fax service is provided before, during or after the game by Tom Wiscarz of Telesports.

LOCKER ROOM: In accordance with NBA policy, the Bulls and visitor's locker rooms will be open to the media up to 45 minutes before the game and 10 minutes after the end of the game. Only working media with a valid credential will be admitted to the locker rooms. The Bulls locker room is located on the east side of the stadium, while the visitor's locker room is located on the west side.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Season passes will be issued to accredited photographers from Chicago daily newspapers and television stations. Photographers from weekly newspapers and magazines wishing to work specific games should request single-game passes. Free-lance photographers needing credentials must submit a letter with a specific assignment from a publication.

POST-GAME GUESTS: Please be sure to list THREE choices for radio and television post-game interviews. This will assure a guest in case the first choice is unavailable.

Vice Presidents

JERRY KRAUSE

Vice President/Basketball Operations

On March 26, 1985, a month after his group purchased the Bulls, new team owner Jerry Reinsdorf's first step to moving the Chicago franchise into the league's upper echelon was the hiring of an astute basketball man to lead the way.

And Reinsdorf's hiring of Jerry Krause, a then 46-year-old long time basketball and baseball executive and scout, was a giant stride forward from the get go.

With Krause as the club's foot hold, in two short years, positive results from his plan of action were recognized. He earned NBA Executive of the Year for 1987-88. He is the only person in sports history to hold upper front office jobs in both the NBA and Major League Baseball.

Since his hiring, Krause has completely rebuilt the basketball end of the franchise, either trading for or drafting the entire Bulls roster with the exception of Michael Jordan.

That group and the coaching staff he hired has propelled the Bulls to the Eastern Conference finals in each of the last two years and to last year's deciding seventh game at Detroit - only the second time the franchise has gone that far.

Now in his 23rd year in the NBA and starting his sixth with the Bulls in addition to 16 in Major League Baseball, Krause has a long history of making key decisions that have resulted in winning teams - his most recent decisions have the Bulls experiencing success unrivaled in the team's 25 year history.

Reinsdorf says that Krause is "the hardest working sports executive I've been around", and Krause quickly insists that he is "only as good as the people around him."

"You make things happen by hustling," he says. "You make things happen with your brains. It's amazing how lucky you get when you work hard."

"Building a staff is crucial. The most important thing is hiring good people. When you hire good people, they make you smart."

Always a man with a plan, after last June's gut wrenching seven game series with Detroit in the Eastern Finals, he immediately set his sights on improving the Bulls for this season. On June 26th, he traded the Bulls first round draft choice in 1990 and second round picks in 1991 and 1992 to New Jersey for guard/forward Dennis Hopson. That move was followed by the selection of 6'10" guard/forward and European Player of the Year, Toni Kukoc with the 29th pick in the draft.

Krause has been responsible for the drafting of Scottie Pippen, Horace Grant, Stacey King, Will Perdue, B.J. Armstrong and Jeff Sanders on the current Bulls roster and Charles Oakley, Brad Sellers, Jack Haley, Mike Brown, Scott Meents and Pete Myers on other current NBA rosters.

Since he took the job the club has made 33 trades, bringing current Bulls Bill Cartwright, Craig Hodges, Hopson and John Paxson to the roster as well as deals involving Sam Vincent, Dave Corzine, Sid Green, Mike Holton, Rod Higgins, Sedale Threatt, Steve Johnson, Ed Nealy, Orlando Woolridge, Rory Sparrow and Steve Colter now on other rosters.

In previous NBA stints with Baltimore, Phoenix, the Los Angeles Lakers and a four year early 1970's time with the Bulls, he was responsible for drafting two Hall of Famers, Earl Monroe and Wes Unseld and Rookies of the Year Monroe, Unseld and Alvan Adams. He also drafted Jerry Sloan while at Baltimore, Clifford Ray and Norm Van Lier at Chicago, Norm Nixon, Brad Davis, James Edwards and Michael Cooper in two years with the Lakers.

He spent six years with the White Sox as a Special Assignment Scout, playing a key role in the scouting of 1985 American League Rookie of the Year, Ozzie Guillen. He also had major roles in deals that brought Greg Luzinski, Julio Cruz, Ed Farmer and Tom Seaver to Chicago. He drafted Greg Walker out of the Philadelphia Minor League organization and played a strong role in the selection of current Major Leaguers Daryl Boston, Kenny Williams, Ron Karkovics, Steve Bueschele and Cecil Espy as free agent drafts. He worked for Cleveland, Oakland and Seattle in addition to the White Sox.

An alumnus of Taft High School on the city's North Side, he owns the distinction of having worked for three Chicago franchises, the Cubs, White Sox and Bulls and moving from the bottom of the Pro Sports ladder to a top executive job.

He attended Bradley University in Peoria where he played baseball and worked for the basketball coaching staff. He has also spent time as a staff writer for Chicago's American and The Peoria Journal Star and contributed to both Sport and Sports Illustrated magazines.

"When I leave this franchise, I would like to leave wearing World Championship rings and have the franchise in a position where it can win for a long time to come," Krause said. "I want to win for the people of this city, for my father, who didn't live to see me take this job, and for my family." Krause is 51 and resides with that family, wife Thelma, daughter Stacy and son David in Skokie.

IRWIN MANDEL

Vice President/Financial & Legal

Entering his nineteenth season, the longest tenure of anyone with the Bulls, Irwin Mandel is the senior financial executive in the NBA, and one of the most experienced in any management position in the League. He is responsible for the Club's financial, legal, and corporate areas. His most important duties include player contracts, financial reports, and applying and interpreting the NBA's salary cap, right of first refusal, and other collective bargaining rules. Mandel oversaw the computerization of the entire office and the instituting of a detailed budget plan, and he coordinated and negotiated the Club's switch to charter travel for the current season. In recent years, Mandel helped develop NBA team financial statements and assisted the NBA Labor Relations Committee. He is considered one of the League's most knowledgeable experts on the salary cap, player contracts, and the collective bargaining rules. Mandel was one of the select few NBA executives chosen to serve on the committee to advise the League office regarding the most recent salary cap rules changes, and was one of two NBA front office executives appointed to the league-wide insurance committee.

In the eighteen years since his involvement with the League began, Mandel has been an everyday participant in the NBA's growth into an entertaining, exciting, and respected enterprise that is currently enjoying the most prosperous days in its history. "When I first started, almost every team was losing money. Gate receipts were way down. Each team's national TV revenue was about 1/25 of what it is today. Player salaries were much lower then, also. The total team salary during my first year was equivalent to the average salary of an individual player in the current market. Also, the role and importance of the agent has increased dramatically. Contracts are much more complicated today concerning dollars, guarantees, injury clauses, incentives, and free agency issues. Back then it was just the basketball court, today too often there is the legal court as well. When I started, we had eight people in the front office. Today we have over 30. Plus there is a significantly greater emphasis and commitment on the part of the Bulls and the other teams to the marketing area than in the past.

"Every day is interesting and challenging. My job provides me with the opportunity to be creative, especially in regards to the salary cap. The salary cap and free agency were not in existence 18 years ago. Those two aspects have had a tremendous effect on the NBA. Now teams have to be knowledgeable, creative, aggressive, and one step ahead. That is what we're trying to do here."

Mandel received both his undergraduate degree in accounting and his law degree from Northwestern University. He is a Certified Public Accountant, as well as a member of the Illinois Bar. Mandel worked in the tax department of Arthur Andersen & Co. for four years prior to joining the Bulls. He is very active in various Northwestern alumni organizations, having recently completed two terms as President of the NU Club of Chicago. He was a recipient of the Northwestern Alumni Service Award, is active in Little City charitable activities, and speaks regularly to business groups, law schools, and college students regarding legal and financial management careers in professional sports. Mandel, who is an avid tennis player, is a native Chicagoan, residing in Highland Park with his wife, Sheri, and sons Michael and Robby, who serve as ballboys at the games.

STEVE SCHANWALD

Vice President/Marketing & Broadcasting

During the last four years, Steve Schanwald and his staff have been committed to making the Chicago Bulls as successful off the court as they have been on. And have they ever! Hired in January of 1987 to lead the Bulls marketing and broadcasting areas, Schanwald is responsible for ticket sales, advertising sales, game presentation, promotions, media and community services, broadcasting and advertising. Within nine months of his arrival, season ticket sales jumped from 4,800 to 11,000. They currently stand capped at over 13,000, with a 5,000 name waiting list. In his three full years, the Bulls have sold out all but one game, having sold out the last 140 consecutive games. Schanwald has dramatically increased the involvement of Chicago's corporate community as well, bringing in over 150 of Chicago's leading corporations to serve as the team's "corporate partners," as they sponsor everything from advertising signs, team publications, to team giveaway promotions and game entertainment elements. One of Schanwald's chief objectives has been to broaden the Bulls fan base. Toward that end, the Bulls have shifted their on air telecasts to WGN-TV, and have significantly broadened their radio and TV networks throughout the midwest. Recognizing the importance of "giving something back to our great fans," one of the first things Schanwald did upon his arrival was to create the Bulls community services department, its mission being to ensure the Bulls "service the needs of our fans, are active in community affairs and implement our 'good neighbor' policy." Along with team chairman Jerry Reinsdorf, Schanwald founded CharitaBulls - the Bulls non-profit charity arm. During the past three years, almost $500,000 has been raised by CharitaBulls, and donated to worthy Chicago area charities. This past year, team chairman Reinsdorf announced that CharitaBulls was pledging $1,000,000 to the Chicago Park District for the purpose of refurbishing basketball courts throughout the city's park system. To guarantee that the Bulls can fulfill this commitment, Schanwald has directed that the Bulls host events like the "Shoot-The-Bull 3 on 3 Roundball Classic," the most successful second year 3 on 3 basketball tournament in the country. This year's event was held in Grant Park, and featured over 7,000 players, 1,700 teams and 100,000 spectators, while raising over $100,000 for CharitaBulls and the Illinois Special Olympics.

Having spoken to such groups as the American Marketing Association, and the Sports Management Institute, Schanwald is in demand as a speaker on the subject of sports marketing. Schanwald and his staff annually produce a comprehensive marketing plan, designed to ensure that the Bulls "maximize the sales and entertainment potential of our product." Under Schanwald, Bulls games have become entertainment extravaganzas, with something happening all the time, be it the LuvaBulls, the Bulls Brothers, Dot Races, music or fan contests. Schanwald's philosophy regarding game presentation has been to ensure that "our fans are thoroughly entertained from the moment they arrive at Chicago Stadium to the moment they leave. We want our fans experience at Chicago Stadium to be a pleasant and a happy one. We want them to know we appreciate their patronage, and we want to involve them in the game, to make them participants in the game, rather than merely spectators."

Since entering the professional sports marketplace Schanwald has been involved in hosting two All-Star games in two different sports. In 1988, Schanwald oversaw the Bulls staging of the NBA All-Star weekend, and in 1983, he was responsible for creating what a Sporting News editorial called, "the greatest old timers event in baseball history." In conjunction with the 1983 Baseball All-Star game, this event featured nearly 100 of baseball's great-est living players. A native of Bethpage, New York, Schanwald was a 1977 University of Maryland graduate, and worked in the school's sports marketing department. Upon graduation, he was named Sports Promotion Director at the U.S. Airforce Academy. In 1979, Schanwald was named Director of Promotions for the World Champion-to-be Pittsburgh Pirates of "We are Family" fame. In 1981, Schanwald joined the White Sox as Assistant Vice President-Marketing. While on the South Side, franchise attendance records were established and the organization received baseball's award for overall marketing excellence on two separate occasions. In 1985, he became the recipient of a Chicago Emmy for the Sox 1985 highlight film. An avid golfer, he now resides in Burr Ridge, Illinois.

Faul Fleet Helps You Win Big.

THE AUTOMOTIVE FLEET game is as competitive and unforgiving as any championship game the NBA ever played. But year after year, The Faul Fleet Group captures the trophy in nationwide corporate fleet sales and service.

ALTHOUGH WE PLAY our home games in the Chicago area, we sell, service and deliver more cars, vans and light trucks than virtually any other fleet dealer in the country.

WE CARRY EIGHT in-house car and truck lines and, by special order, we can put your drivers in any vehicle that Ford, General Motors or Chrysler builds. Whether your business fleet is a handful of economy cars stationed in the Chicago area or thousands of luxolandboats cruising the entire country, The Faul Fleet Group can help you purchase or lease, operate and recycle all your vehicles at the barest minimum cost per mile.

SO CALL FAUL FLEET. We'll help you take home the trophy.

CALL DON FENTON, PRESIDENT
(708) 882-5306

FOR ALL YOUR DOMESTIC CAR AND LIGHT TRUCK NEEDS.

The Bulls played nine of their first 14 games on the road, recording a 4-5 mark in those games. At Chicago Stadium the Bulls were 4-1, finishing November two games above the .500 mark. Chicago has won six of its last seven home opening night games, including this year's 124-119 overtime win over Cleveland. The next night, the Bulls dropped a 102-100 decision to Boston, their only home loss this season. Bill Cartwright scored his 10,000 career point in the loss to Boston. The team embarked on a 14-day, seven-game road trip with stops in Sacramento, Utah, Seattle, Portland, Phoenix, Golden State and Los Angeles (Clippers). The Bulls went 3-4 on the swing. John Paxson scored a career-high 27 points at Utah. Michael Jordan finished the month leading the NBA in scoring with a 31.4 average.

December (11-3)

The Bulls began the month in fourth place in the Central Division and ended the month as the division leader. Michael Jordan had a career-high 17 rebounds vs. Denver on 12/5. When Craig Hodges scored his season-high 15 points vs. Charlotte on 12/16, he was 5-6 from three-point range. His 5 three-point field goals made tied his club record. B.J. Armstrong had a career-high 20 points at Philadelphia on 12/23. Stacey King tied his career-high 13 points vs. Minnesota on 12/26. In roster moves, Chicago waived Jack Haley on 12/18 and activated Jeff Sanders off the injured list. The Bulls home winning streak reached 11 games. One more win ties the club record of 12 wins in a row at home. That was achieved during the 1974-75 season, the year the team won the Midwest Division. The Bulls has their 100th consecutive home sellout on 12/14 vs. Orlando.

January (9-6)

The month was filled with record breaking and controversy. Chicago opened the month with two straight wins, but then dropped three straight games on the road at Milwaukee, Detroit and Indiana. On Jan. 15 the team lost a controversial game at New York 109-106 when Trent Tucker made a three-point basket with one tenth of a second left in the game. Chicago gained revenge against the Knicks with a 117-109 home win on Jan. 21 before a CBS-TV national audience. Team records broken included most three-point field goals made and attempted (by Michael Jordan 7-12 vs. Golden State on Jan. 18); most team three-point field goals made and attempted (11-21 vs Golden State on Jan. 18); and most free throws made and attempted in a half (by Michael Jordan 18-18 vs. New York on Jan. 21). The record that stood out most is Michael Jordan breaking Bob Love's all-time leading point total (12,623). For the sixth time in Bulls history, and the first time since 1981, two Bulls (Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen) will play in the NBA All-Star Game.

February (7-5)

The Bulls hit both ends of the basketball spectrum this month, losing four straight to begin the month, and then winning seven of eight, including six in a row, to close out the month. At the All-Star weekend, Craig Hodges captured first place in the American Airlines/ITT Sheraton Shootout, and Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen were members of the East team, marking Jordan's sixth straight All-Star appearance and Pippen's first. A key to the club's resurgence was the play of the bench - rookie Stacey King scored a season-high 19 points in a 137-95 win over Miami Feb. 13, and Will Perdue and Ed Nealy helped in the rebounding department, taking up the slack for the injured Bill Cartwright, who missed five games with back spasms. Hodges made a three-point shot in 14 straight games, breaking his own club record for most three-point shots made in a season (71), against Houston on Feb. 19. Michael Jordan achieved his first triple-double of the season, scoring 35 points, grabbing 10 rebounds and handing out 10 assists in a 113-102 win over Portland Feb. 23.

March (12-3)

March turned out to be the best month of the season for the Bulls, as they won 12 of 15 games and closed to within 4 1/2 games of the first-place Detroit Pistons in the Central Division. Although Chicago has been a solid team when playing at home this season, with a 29-5 record through March, ironically enough, all three losses - to Utah, Detroit and Sacramento - during the month came at the Stadium. The Bulls showed their strength, however, by winning all five road games (at Boston, Milwaukee, New York, Atlanta and Cleveland). In the March 28 117-113 road win over the Cavaliers, Michael Jordan scored a career-high 69 points, the ninth highest point total ever in an NBA regular season game. Jordan also grabbed a career-high 18 rebounds in that game. Other bright spots were rookie Stacey King's career-high 24 points against Sacramento on March 24 and Head Coach Phil Jackson winning his 45th game on March 26 vs. Phoenix making him Chicago's winningest rookie coach.

April (8-4)

Began the month in the midst of a nine-game winning streak which ended on 4/14 with a 113-103 loss at Washington. The Bulls then ended the month on a bit of a sour note dropping four of their last six games, two straight. The 4/14 loss also ended the club's team record eight-game road win streak. In transactions, the Bulls signed Clifford Lett to a 10-day contract on 4/4 but then released Lett on 4/14 the day they activated Craig Hodges off the injured list. Hodges played in the last two games of the season and in the last game at Detroit on 4/22 he made one three-point field goal which gave him a single-season personal best. He finished going 87-181 from three-point range (.481). Rookie B. J. Armstrong's consecutive free throws made streak ended at 28 in Boston on 4/20. It was the longest streak of that kind by a Bull this year.

The boost you give the Bulls is a boost
we like to give back.

We think it's important to show our appreciation to the community which has given us such great support. So we've dedicated ourselves to bringing more than an NBA title to Chicago.

Through our umbrella non-profit organization, "CharitaBulls," and many other community service projects, we've reached out to those in need and actively involved our team with Chicagoland. And so have many of our Bulls' sponsors.

We never forget your cheers, Chicago. And we're spreading them around.
